

Celebrating fifteen years in ministry, International Women's Ministries once again reported record-breaking donations of nearly $90,000, a 30% increase over the previous year. We praise God for His provision, and we thank our donors!

IWM was able to support our missionary partners around the world; a pastor's home was restored after a fire in the Philippines; women in church leadership were given training and equipping in Nicaragua; missionaries in Peru were given support for their program that teaches women web design; widows were given provision; and we traveled to many of these countries to witness the ministries first-hand and to wipe the tears of our sisters.

Left: Seventy-nine percent of all donations in 2023 went toward support of our missionary partners and toward mission trips, where we wiped the tears of our sisters around the world. Donations to the general fund are used for administrative costs and special gifts to missionaries.

IWM remains transparent and accountable as we serve women in ministry around the globe, wiping the tears of our sisters. Every donation given goes directly to the missionary for the purpose it was given. International Women's Ministries never takes a cut or a percentage of any donation, nor does any board member of IWM receive compensation.

2023 was an exceptional year for IWM, as COVID travel bans were lifted, and we were ready to go and serve! We went to the Philippines, Nicaragua, and Mexico, bringing gifts and supplies to our missionary friends, as well as encouragement, training, prayer, and support.

Right: Missionary Support and Partnership, the core of what we do, comprised over half of our expenses in 2023, while twenty-nine percent of expenses in the year went toward mission trips. General Fund Expenses, comprising 18% of our budget, were split between gifts to meet a missionaries' specific needs, and administrative costs, such as insurance or software.
